Words for Meditation

"Bonhoeffer was addressing an urgent question in his day: in a world in which reality has been turned upside down and everything we once thought to be true is now contested, and everything we assumed was untruth is now venerated by the majority, how do we know who we really are, who Christ really is, and what Christ is really calling us to do, apart from the crowd who would tell us otherwise?"

~ Rev. Mark Feldmeir

Scripture

John 1:1–4

Today's Questions

1. Have you ever tried to get "lost in a crowd" by blending in and conforming to the norms and expectations of a group in order to belong or to be accepted?
2. What "lenses" (cultural, political, religious, etc.) do you use to perceive and interpret the world? Do you ever suspect that you might not be seeing things accurately or fairly?

Today's Takeaway

1. We are called to _____ before _____ so that _____ can _____ us and _____.

Current Sermon Series

Dispatches from Cell 92: Bonhoeffer on Faith and Resistance

Some call him a martyr. Others, a spy and assassin. But before his arrest and execution by the Nazis in 1945, Dietrich Bonhoeffer was a pastor and theologian whose writings on Christianity have become more relevant today than ever. In this six-part series, we'll explore Bonhoeffer's thoughts on grace, faith, responsibility, and resistance for clues about how we might live out our faith in ways that make a difference in today's world. The series will include an all-church book study and documentary film discussion.

Bonhoeffer All-Church Book Study

This seven session class is designed to accompany our sermon series, Dispatches from Cell 92: Bonhoeffer on Faith and Resistance. Each week, participants will explore sections of Dietrich Bonhoeffer's book, The Cost of Discipleship, that align with the sermon theme for that week. Participants will also view and discuss a documentary on Bonhoeffer's life and ministry. Register at gostandrew.com/studies.
