Rev. Chris Jorgensen is the Lead Pastor of St. Andrew's United Methodist Church in Omaha, Nebraska. Before joining St. Andrew's, she served as the first female pastor of Hanscom Park UMC from 2017–2022. A self-described fourth-career pastor, her previous roles include librarian, stay-at-home mom, and academic administrator.

Pastor Chris felt called to ministry through the story in Luke 5, where Jesus urges the disciples to cast their nets into deeper waters. That call led her from Omaha to Drew Theological School in New Jersey in 2012. Pastor Chris says, "I want to break down every barrier that might keep someone from encountering the love of God... and make space for people to learn, ask questions, and be their most authentic selves."

At the End of the Day: 7 Questions for Mindful Living

The Apostle Paul once wrote, “Test yourselves to make sure you are solid in the faith. Don’t drift along taking everything for granted. Give yourselves regular checkups. You need firsthand evidence... that Christ is in you. Test it out” (2 Corinthians 13:5, The Message).

With those words, Paul urges us to take inventory of our lives daily—to “review the tapes” to see where we might have lived up to our faith, and where we might have fallen short. In this series, we’ll put a new twist on an old form of prayer called “The Examen” which gives us a formula for intentional self-examination at the end of each day. How can we yield our own will to God’s purposes if we are not conscious of our own shortcomings? How can we see where God has shown up in our lives if we do not reflect on the experiences and encounters of our day? Join us as we explore 7 questions for honest self-examination at the end of our day.
